A LAPSED-MEMBER WIN-BACK, BUILT FOR THE ABA

Bring lapsed lawyers back by asking, not reminding.

Four short emails from the ABA membership team. Each asks one question, and every answer sets off the right next step: a rejoin link, an answer to their objection, or a graceful goodbye.

> Example campaign. The American Bar Association is not a PropFuel client and has not reviewed or endorsed this. Built by PropFuel from the ABA's public website.

WHY WE BUILT THIS

Most associations are moving from sending members information to actually listening to them, and to making decisions from what members tell them. A win-back is the cleanest place to start. Most associations email lapsed members a reminder and learn only who clicked. This campaign finds out who simply didn't know they'd lapsed, who wants back in, and exactly why the rest left.

We built it in PropFuel's Membership AI from the ABA's own site and membership offer. The pages that follow show every email, every answer and what happens next, in the ABA's branding. Run it in PropFuel, or take it and build it yourself.

01 The campaign at a glance

02–05 Each check-in, email and answers

06 What the ABA learns

07 Run it in PropFuel, or build it yourself

08–09 Every follow-up, word for word

Four questions. Every answer goes somewhere.

Members enter the campaign the day the ABA marks them lapsed. Each email goes out only if they haven't answered or rejoined yet, so a lawyer who comes back on day two never gets email three.

RUNNING THE WHOLE TIME

Enrolled automatically when your AMS marks a member lapsed.

Removed the moment they rejoin, so no "last chance" email lands after they've paid.

Every answer saved to the member's record, with rejoins and dues counted.

Are you aware that your ABA membership has lapsed?

From The ABA Membership Team Sample member: John

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out personally. We've noticed your ABA membership has lapsed, and I wondered if you were aware of it — sometimes life gets busy and these things slip by.

I'd love to help you reconnect with the community and all the resources you have access to as a member.

Are you aware that your ABA membership has lapsed?

WHEN THEY ANSWER

No — REJOIN PATH

Shows a welcome-back page and sends the rejoin email.

EMAIL "Your ABA membership is waiting — here's how to come back"

Yes — FOLLOW-UP BRANCH

Moves them to the "why not" follow-up, which asks what's keeping them away.

THEN ASKS

"Anything you'd like to share about your experience with ABA membership?"

An open-text follow-up on the answer page. Every comment lands on the member's record.

No answer? They roll to the next check-in automatically. Anyone who rejoins drops out the moment your AMS shows it.

Why this question

Most lapsed members never decided to leave. When a medical society opened its win-back with this same question, 72% of first answers said they didn't know they'd lapsed. A yes or no surfaces those lawyers in one click, and the "No" group gets a rejoin link the same moment.

Are you planning to reinstate your ABA membership?

From The ABA Membership Team Sample member: John

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Hi John,

It's been a few weeks since we checked in, and I wanted to circle back. I know life gets busy—cases pile up, priorities shift—but I hope you've had a chance to think about what the ABA membership meant to you. Whether it's the CLE programs, the network, or just being part of a community of lawyers working to strengthen the profession and defend the rule of law, those benefits are still here whenever you're ready.

I'm curious where your head is at.

Are you planning to reinstate your ABA membership?

Yes, I plan to rejoin!

Maybe, I haven't decided yet.

No, I won't be rejoining this year.

One click records the answer. No login, no form.

WHEN THEY ANSWER

Yes, I plan to rejoin! REJOIN PATH

Shows a thank-you page and sends their rejoin link.

EMAIL "Ready to come back? Here's your link to rejoin the ABA"

Maybe, I haven't decided yet. FOLLOW-UP BRANCH

Moves them to the "why not" follow-up.

No, I won't be rejoining this year. GRACEFUL EXIT

Stops this campaign for them and moves them to the "why not" follow-up.

No answer? They roll to the next check-in automatically. Anyone who rejoins drops out the moment your AMS shows it.

Why this question

A "Renew now" button only hears from people who are already ready. Three choices hear from everyone, and "Maybe" is the most useful answer of all: a list of lawyers who are still persuadable, sorted before your team spends a minute on outreach.

Would you like to rejoin the ABA now?

From The ABA Membership Team Sample member: John

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Hi John,

I know we've checked in a couple of times now. I'd genuinely love to have you back in the ABA — your voice and expertise matter to this profession. If you're ready, it takes just a few minutes.

Would you like to rejoin the ABA now?

Yes, let's do it!

No, I won't be rejoining this year.

Yes, let's do it! REJOIN PATH

Shows a welcome-back page and sends the reinstatement link.

EMAIL "Your ABA membership is one click away"

No, I won't be rejoining this year. GRACEFUL EXIT

Stops this campaign for them and moves them to the "why not" follow-up.

No answer? They roll to the next check-in automatically. Anyone who rejoins drops out the moment your AMS shows it.

Why this question

By week five, everyone still in the campaign has had two chances to answer. This is the direct ask, kept to three sentences, and it only reaches people who haven't responded or rejoined.

What is holding you back from rejoining the ABA?

From The ABA Membership Team Sample member: John

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Hi John,

I know we've reached out a few times, and I appreciate you taking the time to think about it. Before we step back, I'd genuinely like to understand what's standing in the way. Is it cost, time, a life change, or something else entirely?

Your answer helps us serve you better.

WHEN THEY ANSWER

I'd like to rejoin now! — REJOIN PATH

Sends the reinstatement link right away.

EMAIL "Ready to rejoin? Your ABA membership link is here"

Cost — ANSWERS THE OBJECTION

Answers with what membership pays back, plus dues help from the Service Center.

EMAIL "ABA membership — the value might surprise you"

Time — ANSWERS THE OBJECTION

Shows how on-demand CLE and digital resources fit a busy practice.

EMAIL "ABA membership works on your schedule"

I'm retiring — GRACEFUL EXIT

Thanks them for a career in the law. No more asks.

I've left the field — GRACEFUL EXIT

Wishes them well. No more asks.

Something else — FOLLOW-UP BRANCH

Moves them to the "tell us more" follow-up.

No answer? They roll to the next check-in automatically. Anyone who rejoins drops out the moment your AMS shows it.

Why this question

This is the exit interview lapsed members never get. Six choices, one click, and each reason gets its own reply: value for cost, flexibility for time, a thank-you for retirees. Every reason lands on the member's record, ready for next year's renewal plan.

A reminder shows who clicked. This shows why.

Seven weeks in, every lapsed lawyer who answered is sorted by what they actually said, and it's all on their record for your team, your renewal planning and your next campaign.

AWARENESS

Who didn't know they'd lapsed

Check-in 1 separates the lawyers who simply missed a renewal from the ones who chose to leave. The first group usually just needs a link.

INTENT

Who's in, who's unsure, who's out

Check-ins 2 and 3 give you a live list of "plan to rejoin" and "haven't decided" before you spend another dollar of outreach on them.

REASONS

Cost, time, retiring, left the field

Check-in 4 turns churn into categories. Cost and time get a direct answer; retirees and career changers get a thank-you, not more asks.

THEIR WORDS

Open comments, in their own voice

The follow-up on check-in 1 and the "something else" branch collect what lapsed members want to tell the ABA, written on their record.

A STANDARD REMINDER SEQUENCE

- Who opened and who clicked
- Who renewed, once someone checks the AMS by hand
- No reason for leaving, from anyone
- Members who renewed keep getting "last chance" emails
- Your AMS looks exactly the same afterwards

THIS CAMPAIGN

- ✓ Who simply didn't know they'd lapsed
- ✓ Who wants back in, who's unsure, and who's out, with the reason
- ✓ Every answer written to the member's record in your AMS
- ✓ Rejoiners drop out automatically; rejoins and dues are counted
- ✓ Retirees and career changers thanked, not chased

It’s yours either way.
